Local Rustlings.

Isn't Cerrillos to have any side show this week?

A large assortment of Ladies' Straw Hats, in the latest styles, at J. H. Gerdes'.

A notice of final proof, David L. Miller, of Cerrillos, begins publication in this issue.

If you want to buy any kind of real estate or mines, call on the Mine Exchange Co.

A child of Mr. and Mrs. Larock was quite badly bitten by a dog one day this week.

If you want harness or harness repairs, go to Burkhardt—stone building, Cerrillos.

Notice of commutation and final proof begins publication this week, John Riffailler, near Galisteo.

The Cash Entry is now doing nicely—so say the miners from the camp—and improving every day.

The largest and best selected stock of boots and shoes in town—also the cheapest, at Mrs. Doyle's.

Lots 37, 38, 78, 79, 370, 371, 277, 278, 280, 336, 337, and 338, in the Cerrillos Town Site Co's. addition to Cerrillos, for sale at a bargain. Apply to this office.

C. W. Uptegrove, of the Grand Central, has again opened out in the meat and grocery business, in his building formerly occupied by Geo. R. Bailey & Co.

The St. Lazarus, from all reports, is clearing about $100 a day with one Huntington mill. The mine could supply ore sufficient to run half a dozen of these mills.

A farmer in Iowa while digging a well, struck a vein of pure creamery cheese, three feet thick. He is now stopping to find the cracker deposit supposed to be somewhere near.

Continued rich developments are daily being talked of in the copper mine at San Pedro, and the works are gradually putting on more men. Their pay roll will number within the neighborhood of 100.

The Festival given by the ladies for the benefit of the church, was a highly enjoyable affair, though the attendance was not large. Ices, angel food, cakes, lemonade and Coffee formed the dainty spread.

The Mine Exchange Co. is having a good number of mines placed with it for sale. If your mine is not sold, it costs you nothing. For further information address Flavell Simonson, Cerrillos, New Mexico, or call on him at Palace Hotel.

Wednesday was pay-day at nearly all of the mines. Pay-day to the RUSTLER seems getting to be a thing of the past. We shall soon have to use more than a gentle reminder. A newspaper can no more live without money, than a fish can live out of water.

Francisco Baca and Felipita Tafos were united in marriage by Father Defouri, at the Catholic Church in Cerrillos on the morning of the 15th. A grand ball followed the wedding on Wednesday night, at the casa of Don. Nestor Ortiz. Good luck to the married ones.

A brace of wild and wooly horse-men, miners from Cerrillos, had a time on the streets yesterday afternoon, and exchanged shots with the police on Water street when the latter attempted to arrest them for fast driving. They were taken in, however, and paid a fine for their sport.—New Mexican.

The Boston R. R. Photo Car is on the track opposite this office, where it will remain until Sunday night only. Good work guaranteed at the following low prices: Card size photos, 6 for $1—$1.50 a dozen. Cabinet size, 6 for $1.50—$2.50 per dozen. Open all day Sunday. All are invited to improve this extraordinary opportunity.

The RUSTLER is in receipt of a letter from President Harrison apologizing for not having marked Cerrillos as one of his stopping places on his trip from Ocean to Ocean. In his letter he states that nothing would have afforded him greater pleasure than to have stopped for a day here, and to visit the old, historic mines which, he read about in his fourth reader, would cause a thrill of genuine satisfaction—but, on account of the political map being otherwise made up, he will have to defer this pleasure to some special occasion.

The show which was here last week hired the team of Mr. J. M. Rogers with which to go to San Pedro, and it seems with a partial understanding that they could have it to go on to White Oaks, if desired. They started on from San Pedro with the team, and Mr. Rogers, becoming uneasy, sent constable Z. M. Crutchfield after them. Mr. Crutchfield overtook them and brought them back. In the meantime one of the horses had been foundered and died. No case could be made against the parties and they were turned loose.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has the following about our south county mines:

Hon. J. B. Mayo came in last night from San Pedro, where he has a force of men at work on his mines. He is much gratified with the industrial activity that characterizes every interest in south Santa Fe county at this time. From the Conger mine and mill he brings specially good news. Mr. Conger, having a few days ago struck another rich gold vein that yields $250 to the ton. The mill works like a charm, eight days run on this better class ore having yielded a brick worth over $1,100. The mill is producing now an average of $1,000 a week, and more than two-thirds of this is clear profit. It was a lucky day for those Milwaukee capitalists when they supplied Conger with the necessary means to open his mine and erect this mill.

However, this is merely a starter. There are great mother veins of gold and placers capable of yielding many millions of dollars, in southern Santa Fe county. The mineral resources of this county have scarcely been scratched over, as yet. The next few years will note rapid discoveries in the mining industry.

This paper desires to help southern Santa Fe county, but it does not believe it can do so by puffing and encouraging the maneuvers of tin horn capitalists and slide investors. This section has plenty of merit on which to base invitations for investment, and such investment made and operated on business principles, will pay. Any other kind will not only prove a failure, but also a drawback and hindrance to development.

Much has been said in these columns about Cerrillos as a smelting point, and much more in the bounds of truth could be said. The fact remains undisputed that, situated in the center of a great mineral section, with fuel and fluxing materials at the door, there cannot be argued a single disadvantage. The only question which ever has come up is the general one of making the reduction of ores pay. This again is one which admits of but little argument. As a business venture, backed by sufficient capital and managed by business capability, what have been the results in the southwest? To get at the matter more clearly, let us first examine into the record of a few of the great reducing plants which have not only established themselves as great and permanent manufacturing industries, but have through their business amassed wealth for their investors.

At Denver there are great ore reduction works whose success has never been questioned. At Pueblo there are very extensive smelters, and also at Leadville. At all of these points great expense is encountered in getting to the works iron for fluxing and coke for fuel, which must be freighted to them from other points. The same applies to the very successful Billings smelter at Socorro, which has coined money from the beginning, and which made of its projector a millionaire. Again, the same applies, and even to a greater extent, to the successful smelting plants at El Paso. The additional expense of buying and shipping fuel and iron to either Pueblo, Socorro or El Paso, over that of procuring the same for an equal amount of ore reducing at Cerrillos, would amount at a mild estimate, to $5,000 per month, or even cutting those figures to $50,000 a year, would alone pay an interest of ten per cent. per annum on an investment of $500,000.

So it can be seen that in point of cheap reduction, Cerrillos offers this great advantage over any point in the southwest, where ores are now reduced. Then it is an established fact that this section alone, developed to 25 per cent. of its capability, could have an output of lead and silver ores worth treating, to an amount equal to—not tens—but hundreds of tons per day, and an extensive, reliable, well managed smelting plant here, would have besides, the ores of much of the lower part of the Territory and Mexico subject to it. We don't want any experiment. We don't want a small concern, badly managed and a failure on its face. What Cerrillos wants is a big smelting plant, whose capabilities will be unlimited, and to such she offers the best field for investment that can be found to-day on the American continent. Such a plant would build up Cerrillos and develop southern Santa Fe county, and make its owners money. No small arrangement is wanted and should not be encouraged, for its failure from natural causes would only serve to keep a deserving and capable enterprise longer from the field.

Remember Mursiter, the home tailor, for a nice fitting suit.

W. E. Newberry came in from the San Lazarus mine Monday and brought another gold brick for shipment. The mine is showing up richer ore every day, and must soon become one of the great bonanza producers of the country.

B. Hanley has gone out to his Rio Hondo valley ranch and is making great improvements there this year. His wind-mill and pump are proving a big success, supplying two large tanks with the necessary water for irrigation.
